

CDC & FDA Recall and Investigation of Cinnamon Applesauce Pouches Due to Elevated Lead Levels

Products Recalled

Recalled products were manufactured
November 2022 and later

Weis-brand cinnamon applesauce pouches

WanaBana apple cinnamon fruit puree pouches

Schnucks-brand cinnamon flavored applesauce pouches and variety pack

Recommendations

Stop Eating the Affected Product

Do not eat applesauce pouches from recalled brands. Check your home for these products and discard them or return them to where you bought them.

Test for Lead in Blood

It is the only way to know if a child has been exposed. A blood test for lead is strongly recommended for individuals who may have consumed the affected products.

Monitor Symptoms

Lead exposure is more harmful to children aged 6 and under. While some children may not show any symptoms of lead poisoning, keep an eye out for symptoms such as stomach pain, constipation, vomiting, or irritability.

Talk with Your Healthcare Provider

People who ate recalled products, may have also been exposed to chromium and should speak with their healthcare provider if they have any concerns.

For further information please refer to the official CDC and FDA advisories:

CDC Advisory : Lead Poisoning Outbreak Linked to Cinnamon Applesauce Pouches

FDA Advisory : Investigation of Elevated Lead Levels in Cinnamon Applesauce Pouches

or

Contact the Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program at healthyhomes@azdhs.gov.

ARIZONA DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH SERVICES

Office of Environmental Epidemiology
healthyhomes@azdhs.gov

January, 2024